

Post Exposure Prophylaxis (PEP):

PEP is a daily medication regimen for HIV prevention that must be started within 72 hours of a possible exposure to HIV and continued for 28 days. PEP should only be used in emergency situations. For more information about the PEP medication regimen visit the CDC Guidelines for PEP

Who Should Take PEP?

Talk to your healthcare provider, an emergency room doctor or an urgent care provider, or a provider listed below about PEP if you think you have recently been exposed to HIV:

- during sex (for example, if the condom broke)
- through sharing needles, syringes, or other equipment to inject drugs
- if you've been sexually assaulted

The sooner you start PEP, the better. Every hour counts.

PEP is not a substitute for regular use of HIV prevention (condoms, PrEP).

PEP is not the right choice for people who may be exposed to HIV frequently. Pre-Exposure Prophylaxis (PrEP) is a more suitable prevention method for ongoing risk. For more information visit PrEP, PrEP Locator, or PA PrEP Providers.

Paying for PEP:

If you need assistance with co-pays or paying for your PEP medication, Advancing Access is available to help match you to a program that best meets your financial needs based on your circumstances and insurance situation and the eligibility criteria for the programs. If you lack insurance coverage, you may be eligible to receive your Gilead medication free of charge through the Advancing Access Patient Assistance Program. Please contact the Advancing Access program to learn more about the program eligibility criteria.
